By holding the partnership:

1. Your company will become well known among Belarusian engineers (Java, functional, .Net developers, etc), as well as Russian, Ukrainian and European developers - the conference has many info-partners from these countries.
2. Your company will gain good public image as an employer on Minsk IT market.
3. Your company will support the community and contribute to functional programming promotion. Thanks to your participation the tickets to the conference will become less expensive, which means that more people will be able to attend it, "get infected" by the ideas of functional programming and start learning Scala - there will be more functional programmers and people with interest on the market.
4. Loyalty to your company will grow. According to our observations and partners' feedback, if a company supports relevant engineering conferences, it affects the amount of positive feedback of potential candidates on LinkedIn (also candidates agree to come to interviews more often).
